Center for Tribal Studies

Since its inception in 1990, the Center for Tribal Studies has become one of the central resources on campus for supporting academic effectiveness, enhancing the quality of student experiences, initiating scholarly activities, bridging communication between tribal nations and the University, and enriching the cultural heritage of the Northeastern State University community. The Center for Tribal Studies welcomes you to visit our offices at the historic Bacone House, located at 320 Academy Street in Tahlequah, Oklahoma.

The 39th Annual Symposium on the American Indian, Hands Across Nations: Smart Legacies - Strong Spirits, is scheduled for April 11-16, 2011.
