Copyright in the Classroom

December 14, 2009 - 11:59am — Anonymous

Start: 02/17/2010 - 10:00am

End: 02/17/2010 - 11:30am

Today the classroom is filled with multimedia experiences and we ask students to create multitudes of media rich documents. Copyright protections are easily bypassed by students and faculty alike who can easily use the computer to copy and paste at will. In this workshop we will discuss copyright in the classroom along with the TEACH Act as it applies to the education setting. We will discuss techniques to detect copyrighted materials in assignments and how to educate your students and yourself in fair use.

This session is offered in Broken Arrow in E110.
