Research

Research in learning styles is not limited to learning in K-12 settings. Research on applications exists in many areas, including cultural diversity, counseling, manufacturing, colleges, senior citizens, physician and nurses. Studies are underway dealing with such diverse issues as violence and bigotry.

Services

There will be an expansion of services offered by OIL. To date, we have provided testing, teacher, student and parent training and consultation to 62 school districts and 202 different schools. These services will continue and expand as more personnel certified through the ILSN are available to assist. In addition to school districts, we have also aided in learning styles appreciation with the Cherokee County Health Department Child Counseling Center, the United States Attorney's Office for the Eastern District of Oklahoma, the Sequoyah County Health Department and the Oklahoma Coalition Against Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault.

We have presented learning styles seminars to the faculties at New Mexico State Highlands University, Mississippi Valley State University, and Portland State Community College in Oregon. We expect a steady increase in university requests for services as long as recruitment and retention remain critical issues.

We are very excited about the opportunities that OIL can provide for NSU and about the impact it can have on education in Oklahoma. In addition to seminars and training workshops, we provide individual learning style testing, prescriptions and counseling. For more information about learning styles, please contact our offices at Northeastern State University in Tahlequah, Oklahoma.
