Quality Matters

January 24, 2011 - 9:23pm — Rick Shelton

Quality Matters™ is a collegial review process where reviewers provide feedback on the course design in two ways:

1) awarding of points for specific review standards, and 2) providing substantial, constructive, and specific comments and suggestions with regard to both areas for improvement and existing strengths. Reviewers are asked to take the students' perspective with regard to clarity and organization.

The Quality Matters Rubric and review process are dynamic and reflect national standards of best practice and the research literature.
