

This sculpture represents the contrast found within the human body, that idea that it is not only strong, resilient, and flexible, but that is it also fragile and breakable.

