Turner ready to take the top leadership role at NSU

NSU CHAMP
TURNER
NSU's search for a new president came to an end last week. In Steve Turner, the president-elect, the university has found a leader with a proven track record in administration and finance, and a proven ability to lead the university through the challenges of the 21st century. Turner was named president of NSU in 2007, and was named director of the university's Center for Leadership Development in 2009. He has been named to the position of NSU's 11th president and director of the university's Center for Leadership Development in 2011.
